SUMMARY

Front-end web developer striving to redesign the normal user experience. Recently earned a certificate in full stack development through University Coding, with newly acquired skills in JavaScript, CSS, HTML, React.js and responsive web design. Known as a vivid debugger and providing a unique perspective to developing apps, focusing on mobile responsiveness. With each project my goal is to integrate the clients personal touch into the UI. I applied aspects of my UI/Ux development to a recent project. In a group we developed a single page React application that allows the user to buy vintage video games and consoles with plans to expand into buying quality stock from the users. I'm looking forward to expanding my skill repertoire and working as a part of an experienced team to help improve the web.
